

Industrial applicability

The present invention as claimed in anyone of claims 1-20 is also considered to be industrially applicable.

Conclusion

Summarising the above, the present invention is considered to be novel, to involve an inventive step and to be industrially applicable. In view of this, favourable reconsideration is respectfully requested of claims 1-20. In addition to this, the examiner is requested to contact the patent attorney if the examiner of the IPEA intends to dispatch an international preliminary examination report which is unfavourable to the application without further possibilities for written submissions.
